

Seeker

Beneath soft moon light

Stretching into eternity

Growing

Shimmering sea of liquid love

Vast -- in possession of all

Nothing

The Sea of Love, feeding

Tributaries -- many -- rushing in

Merging

Lovers, friends and strangers

Plunge in, are swallowed

Beckon

Some reach the sea

Hold back in fear -- yet

Yearning

Strangers, friends and lovers

Stalk tributary banks

Seeking

Why do they hesitate

Those who are summoned

Wanted

Let go, don't be afraid

Death waits not in the sea

Life

Blended, fused in the sea

Loves and lives -- many

Unified

Sea of Love -- growing

Evolving organic unity

Humanity

Love intensifies in unity

Yet too does sadness

Crying

You on the beaches

Listen -- the sea weeps

Wails

Yearning for your hearts

Patient though demanding

Enter

A child of the world
Crouched in the surf
Grasping
Foolish child — think
Does the sea fit your hand
Impossible
Tears of joy, nor of rage
Will place in your hand
Love
Friends, lovers and strangers
Gone beneath the waves
One
Would you in your loneliness
Rend them all asunder
Why
Join them -- plunge in
The sea isn't divisible
Nor a man
The sea fluid and changing
It alone possesses -- not

Thee

Only love, mature and diffuse

Not love, romantic and selfish

Accepted.

Child of the world -- seeking

Lover, friend or self

Jump

Surrender and flow into

Lovers, friends and strangers

Embracing

Shimmering sea of liquid love

Flowing over and unifying

Free-souls

Love, sweet and pure

Sought, demanded, dreamed of

Found.